Promoting Cultural Understanding
Through Religious Art

Keynote Address:
Patricia Little

Religious art acts as a powerful instrument for expressing faith, conveying religious ideas, and customs. Our Interfaith speakers representing Buddhism, Christianity, Hindu Dharma, Islam, Judaism, Sikhism, and Zoroastrianism will describe how art enlightens their faith and showcase some examples.

About our speaker:
Patricia Little is one of three leaders of the Torah Stitch by Stitch project, a collaborative, inclusive, art project founded by the late textile artist Temma Gentles. This project features over 1500 embroidered panels in a unique rendering of the Torah (Pentateuch), accompanied by works in Greek (Gospels) and Arabic (Quran), cross-stitched by participants from 27 countries.
